

First direct order for AIC with Arvedi Group

AIC has been selected from Arvedi Spa for the technological revamping of a pickling line in Trieste plant. The order is a milestone for the references of AIC since is the first one that will be directly accomplished for the Arvedi Group, world leading producer of tubes and flat products, after a couple of successful projects as a sub-supplier.

This project has been managed in collaboration with Siemens Italia since the beginning of the commercial phases with the aim to find the most suitable equipment for performing the job and will include the revamping of the two main switchboards of the existing pickling line at the Trieste plant (Italy).

AIC will design and implement the replacement of a relevant part of the existing drives and the expansion of the switchboards according to the new motors supplied by Siemens Innomotics and to improve the multidrive configuration; the main target is the improvement of both production capacity, efficiency and reliability of the whole line.

The safety and access control software to the different areas of the pickling line will be upgraded as well, in addition to the modification of the power switchboards and to the fine tuning of the drives. The job will be mainly carried out on site and will be completed in less than four months from the date of the order.
